Paganico
Ancient fortified town built by the Senese as an outpost to protect the Ombrone valley, guarding the access to the hills of Siena. The medieval walls are perfectly preserved; beautiful frescoes by Biagio di Goro Ghezzi can be seen in the apse of the church of St. Michael Archangel.

Civitella Marittima
Hilltop village overlooking the plains of the Tuscan Maremma and the hills of Siena. The village has Etruscan-Roman origins but most of its buildings date back to the Middle Ages. The municipal building is located in the village.

Pari
Medieval hamlet on a hilltop which has preserved its original structure. The views from the village over the Ombrone and Farma valleys are spectacular; the Petriolo hot springs are only a few kilometres away.

Casale di Pari
Old village hidden among thick woods. It is the highest point in Civitella Paganico and a popular destination for people looking for clean air and a relaxing stay.

Monte Antico
Monte Antico is well-known for its castle that towers over the Ombrone valley from the top of a high hill. A winding, cypress-lined road leads to the castle and the view from the top is among the most beautiful in Tuscany.

Casenovole
Originally a castle, Casenovole is now a small hamlet which can be reached through the old Leopoldina road running through the woods: a wonderful drive with many panoramic points.

Dogana
Small village immersed in the countryside of the Maremma, a tiny group of houses on the top of a hill surrounded by fields.
